

YANKEES HAD TO FIGHT

Got Third Game from Browns, but Not Without Struggle.

HOT FINISH DID THE TRICK

Tie in Eighth and Victory in Ninth Brought Joy to 'Fans'—Warhop in Top Form.

The Yankees made it three straight over the humble St. Louis Browns before a slim Saturday crowd on the hilltop yesterday afternoon. The score was 3 to 2. Hal Chase's men were forced to rally in the eighth and ninth innings to win, but Joe Lanks helped them to a victory by knocking a wild pitch with a runner on third in the last frame.

The Browns showed an exceedingly pugnacious front and gave the Yankees the stiffest little battle of the series. While Warhop was in top form, allowing only five hits and giving no passes, several great cutters of a timely nature allowed the visitors to take the lead in the seventh inning. Lanks was working his head off to defeat his former colleagues, and the Yankees by no means took the liberties with his curves that would have made the "fans" feel confident of victory.

As a matter of fact, it looked for a time as though the lowly tallenders were going to strike back and win a game. Lanks was found for only eight hits, and showed a mercurious propensity to keep them scattered to a degree which kept the Yankees in the minority with runs for a greater part of the contest. A couple of singles by Wolter and Knight, however, enabled Chase's men to tie the score in the eighth, while Roach scored the winning run in the ninth with the help of a hit, a passed ball and a wild pitch.

Another player reported sick to Chase yesterday, but such occurrences have become so common that Hal is amazed when the whole team shows up in perfect health. It is quite Johnson this time who is out. He caught cold playing in the rain at Washington, and has been controlled to retire over to short, while Roach was put in to cover second. Jack seemed perfectly at home in his old position, but Roach was a trifle away at second, making a couple of bad errors in six chances.

Bert Daniels performed in scintillating fashion in center field, making some lovely catches, but he found it difficult to rival among the outer garden guardians in the line of the Browns, who robbed Blair of a three-base hit in the second, with a running one-hand catch. Austin gave a splendid account of himself at third, accepting six chances without an error.

Harry Wolter was the leading hitter of the day and the primary run producer among the Yankees. He was credited with three singles, all of which were productive of excellent results. Hogan hit Warhop's curve with safety on two different occasions. Bobby Wallace trotted out a new catcher in the person of Critchell, a Bronx boy, who was with Newark last year. Critchell had a lively day of it on the whole, Daniels, Knight, Hatzell and Chase all getting away with well-earned bases. Two wild pitches by Lanks and a passed ball to center field were the first to score. In the fourth inning Jimmy Austin was safe at first when Roach fumbled his little tap. Melon sacrificed, Warhop to Chase, putting Austin on second. Lanette lined to Daniels, who Hogan singled to center for the first hit off Warhop and Austin talked with ease. Critchell fled out to Roach.

The Yankees tied the score in their half of the same inning. Knight drew a pass as a starter, and while Chase fled out to Melon, Roach grounded out to Rowan, unassisted. Knight taking second on the play. Blair singled to center, scoring Knight, but was out when he tried to stretch the hit.

The Browns forged to the front again in the seventh, when Hogan led off with a single and advanced to second on Critchell's out. Wallace grounded out, Roach to Chase, putting Hogan on third, so that he scored easily on Rowan's single to left. Lanks struck out.

Wolter's single at the opening of the eighth paved the way for the Yankees to tie the score. Although Austin tossed out the right and Cree grounded out, Wallace to Rowan, Wolter advanced far enough around to tally on Knight's single to center. Jack stole second, but Chase lined to Lanks.

In the last half of the ninth the Yankees won the game. Roach's infield dribble was too slow to field and went for a hit. Blair sacrificed to Rowan, unassisted, and Roach took second. A passed ball allowed him to go to third and he scored on a wild pitch.

Mote Down Brooklyn Pitchers

St. Louis Cardinals Have the Better of Battle of Slashing Hits and Weird Errors.

St. Louis, June 3.—Falling heavily on the curves of the Brooklyn pitchers when a hit meant a run, Roger Bresnahan's St. Louis Cardinals won a wild and woolly game from the Superbas here this afternoon. The score was 9 to 7. Brooklyn used four pitchers, Bell, Schardt, Knetzer and Rucker, taking the mound in turn. The Cardinals hit with a care free abandon when the spirit moved them. Two doubles, a triple and a home run were mingled with the commonplace singles.

Losses in the field and a slight disposition to wildness at times by Harmon allowed Brooklyn to tally, but on the whole they were lucky in scoring as often as they did. Harmon held them down to five scattered hits and struck out two. He issued seven bases on balls, and through this medium Brooklyn made their fight. Three glaring errors contributed to the fund.

Brooklyn took the lead in the first inning. Tooly was safe when Oakes dropped his line drive. Dambert made a sacrifice.

PIRATES WIN IN NINTH

Moore Weakens and Bases on Balls Prove Fatal.

Pittsburgh, June 3.—Pittsburgh defeated Philadelphia today 4 to 3 by scoring two runs in the ninth inning. Moore pitched a strong game up to this point and then went all to pieces.

Brooklyn sent four pinch hitters to bat, not one of whom was legally at bat—Miller batting for Hunter, Clarke batting for Leach and Flynn batting for Simon. Each drew a base on balls. Gibson, batting for Camnitz, got a sacrifice fly, the winning run coming over the plate as a result.

Camnitz was hit only in the third inning, when Philadelphia made all of its runs.

GIANTS LOSE TO CUBS

Home Run, with Bases Full, Wins Game for Chicago Nine.

SCHULTE TURNS THE TRICK

McGraw and His Men Must Face Hard Test in Fight for the Lead.

New Yorkers, Starting Game at Runaway Pace, Drive Mordecai the Mighty Out of Box.

Chicago, June 3.—Home Run! Schulte, of the Chicago Cubs, won the second game of the crucial series with the New York Giants here this afternoon by driving out a screaming home drive, and so sent the Giants hurtling down to defeat by the score of 8 to 1. Schulte's drive was one of the longest ever seen on the grounds, and bounded off the score board in the extreme corner of deep right field.

Twenty thousand persons were in the grounds for an hour before the game started, as the tip had gone forth that Mordecai Brown and Christy Mathewson would renew their old feud, and just before the game the spectators encircled the outfield, making ground rules necessary. It was known, too, that the nation's Chief Executive would be present, and that, of course, was not without big effect as an attraction.

A might roar arose from the crowd as Mordecai the Mighty and Christy the Crafts warmed up side by side. Rube Marquard also warmed up, and as he was working well Mordecai waited in favor of Rube. Brown, however, started for the Cubs.

The game was long drawn out and acrimonious. Brown and Zimmerman chased to the clubhouse in the first inning for orating at length about the game. Decisions and later in the game Meyers, Raymond and Berkley warmed the ranks of the malcontents. It was known that Zimmerman became that the crowd booed and the umpire drew his watch.

Although he yawned up in one side, Brown was not at his best when he faced the batters of the league leaders. While he was on the hill he allowed two bases on balls, was hit safely twice, and two runs happened along. He retired, however, with New York runners nesting on second and third, and Ed Russell went into the box to start the second.

Russell's first offering to Devlin was smashed for a two-bagger, and two runs patterned over the rubber. Thereafter, however, he ruled with an iron hand, and the Giants, while they hit hard at intervals, seldom threatened the plate. Ed passed one man, hit another and struck out six men.

The elongated Marquard overtook him, and he issued five passes to first and made a hit. His inability to find the platter cost him dearly, for five of Chicago's runs traced their origin to that cause. At seven, however, he pitched in rare form, and times batters returned to the bench over a strike-out.

The men played brilliant, errorless ball. Balls that perhaps on another occasion would have found their way into the outer garden for safe hits were felled in remarkable fashion and the runners retired at the mark.

Jimmy Doyle took care of eight chances in fine style, while Shean and Tinker took care of ten between them.

The Giants started out at a runaway pace. Devore was passed to first and a moment later he stole second.

On a short cut to first base, Snodgrass walked and on an infield single by Merkle scored Devore. Bridwell scored Fletcher with a fly to Kaiser, the New Yorker sliding in under the throw. The decision resulted in the banishing of Brown and Zimmerman. Devlin promptly scored Snodgrass and Merkle with a double to right field, but was caught stealing third.

Thereafter the offensive tactics of the Giants were checked by the mastery of work of Russell and, slowly but relentlessly, the Cubs pulled up on even terms.

A base on balls, followed by a double by Schulte and a single by Doyle, gave them two runs in the first frame, and two singles and a double steal registered a run in the third. Kaiser drove out a single in the seventh inning, stole second and completed the circuit when Marquard made a wild pitch.

In the score tied Kaiser made his second hit in the fatal eighth and again pitched the midway. Russell and Shekard were passed in order, and Schulte promptly slammed out the drive which settled all doubts.
